Chamber drive seeks to expedite 603 work

BY DENA BISNETTE
In the wake of another traffic fatality, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce is trying to raise funds for a campaign pushing the fast-lane of Hwy. 603.

The campaign will include signs along the highway, bumper stickers and other tactics designed to make certain that Southern District Highway Commissioner Bob Joiner keeps the promise to four-lane the road, which has been the site of five fatalities in the past four weeks.

some of the actual vehicles involved in wrecks for placement along the road.

In order to avoid what Board President Herbert Duboussion called a political situation, the chamber will try to obtain permission of the property owners at wreck sites for placement of such markers.

Putting them in the rights-of-way would be placing the markers on State Highway Department property, Chamber Director Olivia Milner said.

Placing the markers on rights-of-way would make it necessary for the chamber to notify the highway department's surveying personnel to

Five 603 deaths listed in 4 weeks

BY DENA BISNETTE
A Kila man has become the fifth fatality on Hwy. 603 in four weeks.

According to Hancock County Medical Examiner Harold Stiglet, James Michael McColley, 25, of Rt. 3, Box 653, Bay St. Louis, died Sunday from multiple injuries sustained in a two-vehicle collision near Bayou Talla bridge.

Stiglet said McColley had undergone emergency surgery at Hancock Medical Center for those injuries.

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy George Burleson, who investigated the accident with deputies Nathan Hoda and Willie Lee after it was found that the Mississippi Highway Patrol would be unable to respond due to another wreck in Harrison County, said the cause of the accident is still undetermined.

Burleson said some charges may be pending after additional investigation.

He stated that the Triumph, headed south, apparently left the road then veered back onto the pavement and collided with the pick-up truck.

Home saved, kitchen damaged

BY DENA BISNETTE
The cause of a Monday morning fire that damaged the kitchen of a Waveland home may have been a discarded cigarette in a kitchen garbage can, police say.

Police Chief David Garcia said the fire started in a kitchen garbage can next to the kitchen stove.

Dallmann was not at home when the fire was discovered by her neighbor, Pat Lapine, who called the fire department after she noticed smoke coming from the roof of the house.

"All the indications we found show that the contents of an ashtray the lady emptied into the garbage weren't all the way out," Garcia stated.

He said Dallmann's daughter had told him that her mother had emptied the ashtray into the garbage can.

The fire was reported at 10:32 a.m. and the first of two pumper trucks and two fire engines arrived at 10:35 a.m.

Flames were showing through the roof when firefighters arrived, the chief added.

Garcia said the fire caused extensive damage to the kitchen and light heat damage to a wall in an adjacent bedroom, as well as to part of the attic and roof over the kitchen.

The firefighters kept the flames from spreading and the wooden house was spared with the exception of light smoke damage, he added.

The Waveland Fire Department was assisted in the investigation by Hancock County Fire Marshall Jay Marsh.

Coast artist gives fresh view of New Orleans

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
With a fresh approach to typical New Orleans scenes, Neal Myers' water color paintings offer art lovers something new and different.

Myers, a Pass Christian amateur watercolorist who works in a New Orleans men's clothing store, believes what makes his work stand out is the attention to details in an art medium which most frequently lacks detail.

An example of the intricate detail work is visible in a sidewalk scene of several stores where they are and white checkered tablecloths are visible through the windows of a pizza shop.

Myers spends hours planning the details of a picture and drawing it before he ever begins painting.

He has only been painting these pictures for about six months and has already participated in a major Gulf Coast art show and gotten several requests for his works.

Myers says he started painting at his parents' urging.

"I've always liked to draw and paint," he said. "My parents thought I would be able to do well and cuttinely encouraged me to paint," he said.

According to Myers, he did not learn how to do anything in the art class he took in high school.

"When I got started drawing, it just came naturally," he said.

"I am really surprised that anyone is even interested in my art," Myers added.

Before he really started painting, Myers said he spent a lot of time in New Orleans and particularly in the French Quarter.

"The one thing that I learned there was that I did not want to churn out the same kind of pictures that can be found on all sides of Jackson Square," he said.

Myers believes these pictures are produced mainly for the tourists and that is not what he wants to do.

"Jackson Square would be a nice place to go and paint but only for the atmosphere," he said.

Most of the time he paints while watching television or listening to the stereo.

He says one of the worst problems he has with painting is staying up all night to complete a work.

"Once I get started with a picture, I can't quit until I get it finished," he said.

If Myers does have to stop in the middle of a painting, he says it is almost impossible to finish.

"When I come back to a picture I have not completed it seems to be a totally different picture and I see it differently than when I had begun," Myers said.

To complete a picture in one sitting means hours of detailed drawing and planning and then beginning all over with the paint.

"But I really like what I am doing and other than the backache from sitting too long, I don't have any complaints," he said.

Myers' New Orleans scenes paintings are surrealistic and range from just a glimpse of an enclosed patio to a sidewalk scene with silhouetted shoppers.

Myers' first part time with his parents, he and Mrs. Neal Myers Sr. in Pass Christian and part time with his brother in New Orleans, however, he spends a lot of time in Hancock County visiting friends and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myers of Ocean Springs.

Myers' next plan is to paint in other parts of the state who spends most of his time painting between the city and the country.

Myers' paintings also have been displayed as he takes on different projects from papier mache skeletons, fabric wall hangings and playing the drums.

Myers has also designed window displays, produced graphics and drawn posters.

In spite of his success with the water color scenes of New Orleans, Myers said he is not stuck in one thing and is planning to paint some pictures from photographs his father took on a New England vacation last year.

In addition to the New Orleans scenes, Myers has already painted several other pictures including a "typical Seattle ferry" and an old photograph of a family looking at the Statue of Liberty.

Myers is currently working to get enough pictures completed to hold a show.

Bay police seeking missing Texas woman

BY DENA BENNETT

The Bay St. Louis Police Department is seeking information regarding an 18-year-old Texas woman reported missing Wednesday.

Bay Police Detective Chuck James said the woman is Sheila Day, an 18-year-old white female with brown hair and brown eyes, about five feet, three inches tall and weighing about 135 pounds.

When last seen, Day was wearing a flowered top with a dark background and a pink tube top underneath, blue jeans and no shoes.

She is from Irving, Texas, and was vacationing in Pass Christian.

James said she was reportedly seen at the foot of the Bay St. Louis Bridge, on the Bay St. Louis side, getting into a battered Ford pickup painted with grey primer.

The vehicle had no tag and was occupied by two white males. The truck was last seen headed west on US-90 at about 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Anyone who may have seen Day should contact the Bay Police Department at 467-8221.

Bay police to get new radios

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis Police Department is getting new walkie-talkies. Bay St. Louis councilmen recently approved the purchase for the new equipment from budgeted funds.

"Modern law enforcement cannot function without a proper communications system," Bay St. Louis Police Chief Ray Murphy said.

Reasons for using individual radios include enabling officers to have direct communication with the dispatcher at all times and providing personal communications with other officers, he added.

"But the end result and most important is the officer's safety," Murphy said.

According to Murphy, the police department is "dangerously" in need of a new communications system.

The present equipment is worn and obsolete and only three hand held walkie-talkies are operational, he said.

The 18 new walkie-talkies will be utilized by officers on patrol, the three investigators and two units will be held in reserve.

The agency will have four channels and will be able to communicate with each other.

Bay St. Louis Councilman Ray Murphy said the new equipment will be a great asset to the police department.

discovered that frequencies are not available in high band and that it must stay with the current frequencies, he said.

Murphy also recommended the city advertise for bids for seven new mobile units to replace radios ranging from seven to 15 years old.

The council agreed to Murphy's recommendation and when specifications for the mobile units are prepared advertising will begin.

The 603 death toll continues to rise

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce has set the four-laning of Highway 603 as its main priority for 1987.

Five fatalities within four weeks on Highway 603 have motorists going out of their way to avoid traveling on the dangerous roadway.

Another person lost his life on the obsolete Highway 603 last weekend.

Community leaders were given the good news last month about surveys being done now for the four-laning of Highway 603 from US-90 to I-10.

So many hurdles have to be crossed before construction can even begin on dangerous Highway 603. It is hoped efforts will be made to make the process take as little time as possible.

The longer Hwy. 603 remains as it is, the more people will probably be killed.

In reality all of Hwy. 603 needs to be four-laned, from US-90 to Hwy. 53, as well as Hwy. 53 from Hwy. 603 to I-59.

There are those who will cite causes for the deaths and injuries on Hwy. 603 other than the condition of the highway—other causes such as drivers who drink, drivers who exceed speed limits, reckless drivers, and drivers who fail to compensate for weather conditions.

But the fact remains that these 'other causes' can also be attributed to the drivers on the four-lane arteries such as US-90, I-10 and Hwy. 607 which bisect Hancock County, yet motorists and passengers are not being slaughtered and maimed on those roadways at the alarming rate at which they are on Hwy. 603.

We are hoping all elected officials, (in both county and cities) in addition to all citizens will get behind the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and push for the complete four-laning of Hwy. 603.

Legislative Update

By Ellen Ann Fentress

The 1987 Legislature is heading toward an early April adjournment with a whimper instead of a bang, unlike some recent years.

After already saying "yes" to a massive $1.6 billion highway plan and four percent state employee pay raises and "no" to a new state constitution and higher income taxes, the Legislature last week began tying up loose ends on funding for state operations.

Both chambers faced mid-week deadlines to take action on money bills that originated in the other chamber.

Two sparks during the week occurred as the Senate agreed to a drug testing program for 5,000 Mississippi school children and when Gov. Bill Allain called legislators together to hear about Mississippi's chance to become home to what is being billed as the world's largest scientific project, a $6 billion federal atom-smashing test facility.

The Senate voted to water down a proposition by their president, Lt. Gov. Brad Dye, to test all children in Mississippi in grades 7 through 12 for drugs. Dye unveiled his multi-million dollar testing proposal at a press conference recently and bought television air time to sell his proposal.

But the Senate decided to scale down their leader's plan to a one-year pilot project to be conducted with volunteering school districts testing 5,000 students. The program is expected to cost between $140,000 to $200,000.

After opponents of the proposals failed in a 10-34 procedural vote to nix the bill, the pilot drug testing project won Senate approval 36-14.

The drug testing question now is headed toward the House, where consideration could come this week by legislators who face re-election this summer.

Allain went before a joint legislative session ad mid-week to garner support for an estimated $1 million to persuade the $6 billion federal atom smashing facility to call Mississippi home.

Allain wanted legislators to approve spending $500,000 to $1 million to develop a Mississippi bid for the facility to conduct high-energy physics experiments. The House voted to spend $250,000 to prepare a recruiting plan, but the Senate must concur before the money is spent. The project is said to be the world's largest scientific project. The site would require a 52-mile underground oval pipe system and 12,000 acres of land to be provided by the state.

Allain is banking on the influence of U.S. Sen. John Stennis and U.S. Rep. Jamie Whitten, members of Mississippi's congressional delegation who chair the Senate and House Appropriations committees, to help Mississippi win an edge over other hopeful states that have gotten a recruiting jump on the project.

One state official predicted the high-tech project could stop the scientific brain drain of native Mississippians overnight.

Also at the Capitol last week, the Senate agreed to House wishes to give all state employees at least a $900 yearly across-the-board pay raise.

The Senate voted 45-3 to modify its endorsement of four percent raises for workers on the state payroll to allow the lowest-paid state employees to receive at least $900 more annually if a four percent raise would give them a smaller increase than $900.

HOUSE VOTES

1. House Amendment 1 to 1 of SB 2979 would block the use of state general funds for state university athletics. The proposal failed 33-34.

Phillips, Yes; Holston, Nay.
2. Overriding Gov. Bill Allain's veto of SB 2240 means municipal utilities will have to receive Public Service Commission approval before taking in new service areas. The House agreed 94-22 to override Allain on the measure, which was supported by utility companies.

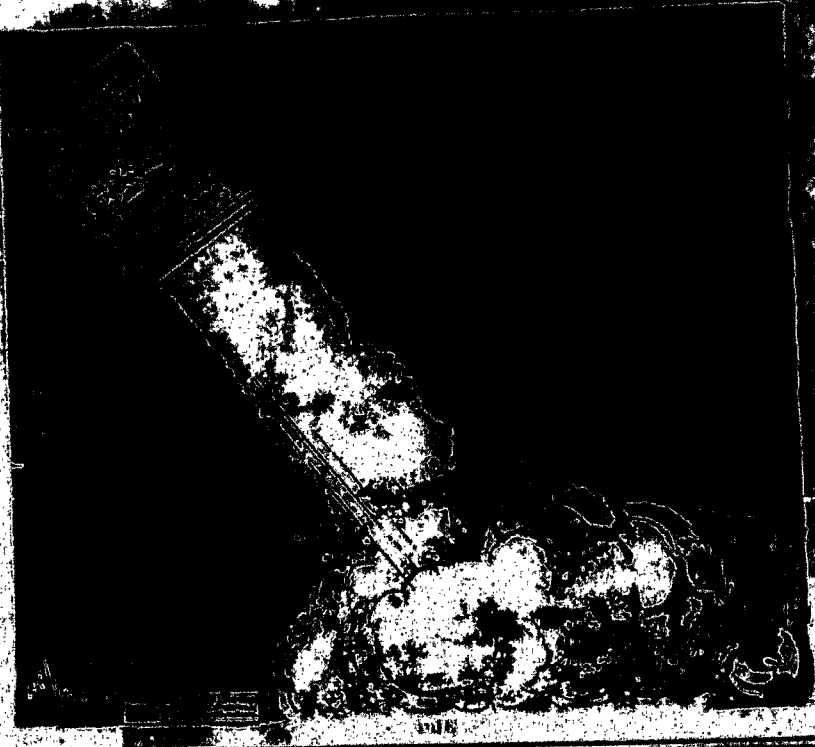

Phillips, Nay; Holston, Yea.

SENATE VOTES

1. SCR 593 would allow the post-deadline introduction of a bill to authorize a pilot project to test Mississippi school children for drugs, a program expected to cost about $180,000. The measure passed 37-14.

Taylor, Yea; Smith, Yea.
2. Amendment 2 to HB 1258 changed the Senate's position on state employee pay raises to be in line with House wishes. The amendment, passed 47-13, granted at least a $900 across-the-board raise to all state employees. The chamber earlier voted for four percent raises.

The 40th Annual Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs Spring Pilgrimage is now underway.

Yesterday the National Space Technology Laboratories and I-10 Welcome Center in Hancock County were on the tour.

Of course, NSTL's Visitors Center is open every day of the year except Christmas for visitors, and the Welcome Center is open every day.

The number of persons residing in the area who have not taken the opportunity of visiting NSTL's Visitors Center surprises us, especially when you consider the visitors from throughout the world.

The Pilgrimage continues today with Pass Christian being the highlight of activities.

Some 11 places of interest will be on the tour from 10 a.m. through 4:30 p.m.

In the Bay-Waveland area, April 2 is the big day followed by Diamondhead on April 3.

Bay-Waveland and Diamondhead Garden Club members are putting the finishing touches on for the two big days only a week away.

It is hoped local residents will mark April 2 and 3 on their calendars and if possible make the Pilgrimage for Bay-Waveland and Diamondhead.

It is good to see the proposed extension of the Garfield Ladner Memorial Fishing Pier in Waveland.

The funding from the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation just goes to show that federal funds are available, but have to be sought in order to be received.

The number of federal grants received by elected officials for the City of Waveland in the past decade have been many and all have contributed to the community's explosive growth.

We will be looking forward to the development in Waveland as the pier is at a very good fishing spot.

Jail Committee members' work unrecognized

Dear Editor:

Our new Hancock County Justice Facility and Medical Center is certainly an improvement for our community, something we should be proud of.

I don't know who had responsibility for the dedication program which took place on March 20, and why they weren't given the entire list of committee persons who worked on making the facility a reality.

Surely we should have remembered our first black chief of police, the late Douglas Williams, and Geraldine Lang, both of whom also served on that committee.

I feel that an apology should be made for such an omission.

Thanking you in advance,
Sincerely,
Catherine Thomas

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

Many people in Mississippi have even heard the name of Pat Wilson, at least in the form of a rumor.

Many have read the headlines about Wilson had been state adjutant general many years, decorated in two world wars and a long-time sports figure.

But few have read the headlines about Wilson, a large bear of a man who was one of the few larger than life figures I have known in four decades of covering this state.

For all of his size and tough appearance, Pat Wilson was really gentle—a pussy-cat. That is, except when anyone or anything tried on his sense of duty, or the interests of the Mississippi National Guard. Nor did he accept any excuses if any order he gave was not carried out.

To understand what Pat Wilson meant in the history of the state, you have to place him in the context of the times he served as Mississippi's adjutant general—from the late 1940s until 1964.

These were years when Mississippi went through the travail of an unenforceable prohibition law, racial strife and political infighting—all three of which spilled over into Gen. Wilson's province.

When a governor was trying to make a show that he was trying to keep the illegal traffic from getting totally out of hand, he would order the National Guard to seize and smash booze, usually in some "dry" area of the state, seldom in the areas where it was sold openly with public approval.

If there was any gambling operation mixed in, an unwelcome guardmen cleaned out everything in sight.

Gov. Hugh White in the mid-50s made the noblest attempt to make the "noble experiment" of prohibition work, ordering the Guard on numerous unannounced raids on bootleggers and gamblers. Always, General Wilson felt it was his duty to personally lead the raid.

Wilson didn't believe in carrying out raids without the press being represented. He chose only a very few reporters to take along. The late Kenneth Tobin, the Commercial Appeal correspondent, and I, the Times-Picayune correspondent, usually were invited to go along.

Word came to us in a Deep Throat call from the general to rendezvous with him at some highway intersection at, say 6 a.m., on the following day and that's all. We knew there'd be a raid, but we never knew exactly where.

At the rendezvous point, the general would tell us to park our car and transfer into an unmarked National Guard car. We would ride through the back roads until we were thoroughly disoriented. Eventually we got to the scene as a carload of guardmen swarmed in to the suspected "leggers' joint."

When the hooch was found, the smashing would start, making strong men cry as the amber colored alcohol flowed into the gutter. The strict Wilson rule was no one went away with any samples, and a violation thereof brought strong punishment.

There were bizarre episodes at times at these raids, such as the time when a man pulled out a rifle and pointed it at the general. Wilson, however, was not fazed. He simply ordered the guardmen to take the gun, shoot him, and then the constable high-tailed it out of the place and drove off.

Wilson, known as "political interference" in running the National Guard, and three of the four governors under whom he served kept his head off. But Gen. Wilson, the last of Wilson's four commanders-in-chief, kept trying to double in the Guard.

Once he called Wilson over to the mansion and ordered him to remain until he signed a proclamation of a high-ranking officer whom Wilson did not think was qualified. The tough-minded Wilson general just sat there at the mansion all day, refusing to sign. Finally, the governor gave up and sent Wilson home.

The historic "firestorm ride" of black civil rights leaders through southern states in 1955 turned violent when the guardmen refused to let them pass. Wilson, however, ordered the guardmen to stand by and let the leaders go.

SEASHORE HOME DESTROYED—Flames engulfed a home on Tennessee Street in Sherecine Park Wednesday afternoon as firefighters from six departments try to protect nearby structures. According to Bill Field Jr., administrative officer of East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department, the two-story frame house had been unoccupied for about two years and no one was inside when neighbors reported the blaze shortly after 1 p.m. Field said the upper floor of the structure had already been destroyed when the fire was reported. Departments assisting included Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Clermont Harbor, BaySide Park and Diamondhead. Also assisting were Hancock County Sheriff's Department and Coast Electric Power Association. ## Bay-Waveland School Board delays school construction bond

BY DENA BISSETTE
The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board has agreed to delay a legal advertisement for a $3.4 million bond issue for a district building program.

According to board attorney Lillian Gex, the school board originally authorized the bond issue advertisement at a special meeting on March 18. A public hearing was set for April 28.

However, a consultation with bond attorneys indicated to Gex that the advertisement should be approved at a regular meeting.

The board agreed to rescind the original motion authorizing the advertisement and will take another vote on the matter on April 12, which is a regular meeting date.

The public hearing must be within seven days following the completion of the legal advertisement.

Gex said the next likely date is May 11, which is also the board's regular May meeting.

The delay will not affect the district's ability to complete the building program, Gex said. She said that legislation, a school bond issue need not involve an election unless a petition signed by a specific percentage of voters requests that the matter be brought to a vote.

If no petition is submitted or if the petitioners fail to obtain the required number of signatures, the bond issue will pass automatically, Gex said.

The bonds are expected to provide the funding needed for additions or improvements in the school facilities at North Bay Elementary, Waveland Elementary, Bay St. Louis Junior High and Bay St. Louis Senior High schools.

In other business, the board agreed to hold a special meeting at 7 p.m. Monday to discuss teacher contracts.

"This is not going to be a simple rubber-stamping of contracts; we are going to go over them one by one," Superintendent of Education Roger Oge told the board.

"There will be some teachers who have been with this district for years who will not be recommended back this year. There will be some administrative people who will not be asked back."

He said much of the meeting will have to be conducted in executive session because it deals with personnel matters.

At the conclusion, Monday, the board discussed a need for the district to make some type of commitment regarding sex education in schools.

Oge said the district needs to work on the problem because "there

In addition, there is renewed public concern over sexually transmitted diseases, such as Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS).

"We don't want to condone promiscuity but we need to protect our students," the superintendent said.

"The board needs to take a leadership role in the community with regard to sex education," Board President Betty Diboll added.

The board took no formal action on the matter Monday but is expected to discuss sex education again at a later meeting.

In other business, the board approved hiring Peggy Dutton as a fifth grade teacher and William G. Parker as a temporary custodian for North Bay Elementary School.

The special meeting will be at the superintendent's boardroom in the Bay Senior High building.

Joiner, interviewed by telephone Wednesday morning, stated that the four-building project is still in the survey stage.

"We are working to get it four-laned, but we can not go any faster than we are already going," the commissioner stated.

With the death of 25-year-old James Michael McCole of Kila, who died from injuries sustained in a Sunday afternoon accident on 603 near Bayou Talla bridge, the death toll on the road has grown to five in the past month.

While Joiner agreed that deaths do increase public interest in the 603 problem, he said not all deaths are related to the highway itself.

"You can't blame every accident on the road unless road conditions were involved. I understand that this most recent wreck had nothing to do with road conditions," Joiner explained.

"We are pushing this project as fast as is humanly possible, knowing the great need that is there."

Deputy George Burleson of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department said Wednesday afternoon that his investigation into the cause of the accident is continuing.

Joiner also said that he does not plan to respond to any speculation regarding 603.

"Speculation is the reason I went down there a few weeks ago and made a public announcement," the commissioner said.

At my request the National Marine Fisheries Service will hold a public hearing at 7 p.m. on Thursday, April 2 in the Coast Coliseum in Biloxi to hear testimony from Mississippi shrimpers as to how they will be impacted by this regulation.

At the very minimum, I believe that NMFS will postpone putting this regulation into effect until it has gathered more information. Once it has checked its documentation as to the TED's need, I believe it will be withdrawn.

The TED regulation is a typical bureaucratic answer to a non-existing problem. It is a perfect example of how the Endangered Species Act ignores people and their livelihood to the advantage of certain fish, fowl and mammals.

MARCH OF DIMES "JAIL" WILL BE IN WINN DIXIE SHOPPING CENTER

Jail and Bail is a fun-filled fundraising activity involving the "Arrest" and "Jailing" of local citizens. This is your chance to get together with family members, friends and co-workers to "Arrest" your husband, wife, boss, friends or enemies for a fee of $10.00. The "Arrestee" will never know (unless you want them to) who sent an officer of the Police or Sheriff's Department to pick them up. The "Arrestee" will be taken to a "jail" set up in Winn-Dixie in Bay St. Louis in an official car (handcuffed if necessary). A "judge" will pronounce sentence upon him (you have the pleasure of naming the charges) and set his bail.

The "Arrestee" is then dressed in a striped jail coat and hat and placed in our "jail", where telephones are available for him to call friends to help raise bail to get him out of jail.

Bail is in the form of MARCH OF DIMES contributions.

No "Arrestee" will be kept in "jail" for more than one hour (unless we receive pledges to keep him or her there).

Funds sought to purchase marker for Battle of Bay St. Louis

The Hancock Historical Society is in the process of raising funds to place a marker commemorating the Battle of Bay St. Louis in 1814.

The historical marker was approved by the Mississippi Legislature in 1965, but no funding was provided. Dr. William Bradford, Historical Society president reports.

An article authored by George Schilling appeared in the March 27, 1936 issue of The Sea Coast Echo describing the battle.

A copy of the article follows:

"When the fleet of British battleships and smaller vessels appeared off Chandeleur Island on Dec. 8, 1814, the only obstacle was a little American flotilla of five gunboats (No. 156, 163, 162, 35 and 23) and two small tenders (Alligator and Sea Horse) under the command of Lt. Thomas Catasby Jones. These 182 men had a broadside fire power of 14 guns throwing a total of 212 pounds of shot at one discharge.

"The British forces were commanded by Captain Nicholas Lockyer who had negotiated with Jean Lafitte. Capt. Lockyer was responsible to Admiral Cochrane who on the night of Dec. 12 dispatched 42 launches and 900 seamen and marines to engage the American ships. Admiral Cochrane had boasted he would eat his Christmas dinner in New Orleans. The British planned transportation in open boats of the assault force (approximately 7,000 men) from Cat Island to Bayou Bienvenue at the head of Lake Borgne (62 miles). A shortage of boats allowed only 2,000 men to be transported in any one wave.

"Lt. Jones had orders from Commodore Patterson to 'sink the enemy...or be sunk.' His duty was to gain delay for General Jackson gathering forces in New Orleans.

"The tiny tender Sea Horse guided by Sailing Master William Johnson was sent to destroy the stores at Bay St. Louis. It is a mystery how the stores, storehouse, and two small cannons got to Bay St. Louis. The Sea Horse was attacked by seven of the smaller British boats and repulsed them after a 30-minute battle. A regiment of militia stationed in support of the two six-pounder cannons on shore made a hasty retreat to big stream. An invalid lady of Natchez implored the Colonel to fire the gun for the honor of the country but he failed to do so. She ignited the cannon's fuse with a cigarette handed her by John B. Toulme (from 1876 address by J.F.H. Claiborne).

"The evening of Dec. 13 had an explosion and large fire from Bay St. Louis as the moored tender Sea Horse was burned to prevent capture. The other tender, the Alligator with one four-pound gun and eight men was captured by the British.

"The battle off Bay St. Louis and Waveland occurred on Dec. 14, 1814 from 10:50 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. The American loss was six killed and 55 wounded. British losses were 17 killed and 77 wounded. The Americans were attacked by superior numbers and forces. They exhibited skill, courage and fought with the certainty of ultimate defeat.

"The capture of these five gunboats removed the last hindrance to the advance of General Edward Pakenham whose forces reached the mouth of Canal Villere nine miles below New Orleans on Dec. 23, 1814."

Bradford said, "The Hancock County Historical Society is spearheading a fund raiser for the purchase of a historical marker to remember this Naval engagement off our shores."

"Hancock County was founded in 1812, only two years prior to the battle, and I hope we might find a suitable manner to commemorate both the birthday of Hancock County and its Naval battle," Bradford added.

Persons wishing to make a contribution to the fund can do so by sending it to: Hancock County Historical Society, P.O. Box 1340, Bay St. Louis, Miss. 39520.

Community Prayer Service set for 10 a.m. Friday

Christ Episcopal Church, 912 South Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis, will be host church for a Community Prayer Service Friday at 10 a.m.

The program, a yearly event during Lent, has been celebrated at various local churches during the first part of March in conjunction with World Day of Prayer for the past 15 years.

"That date was rarely a convenient one as church schedules were full and the resulting conflicts have made it more practical to change to this later date in the same month," said Mrs. David N. McDonald Sr. of Bay St. Louis, program coordinator.

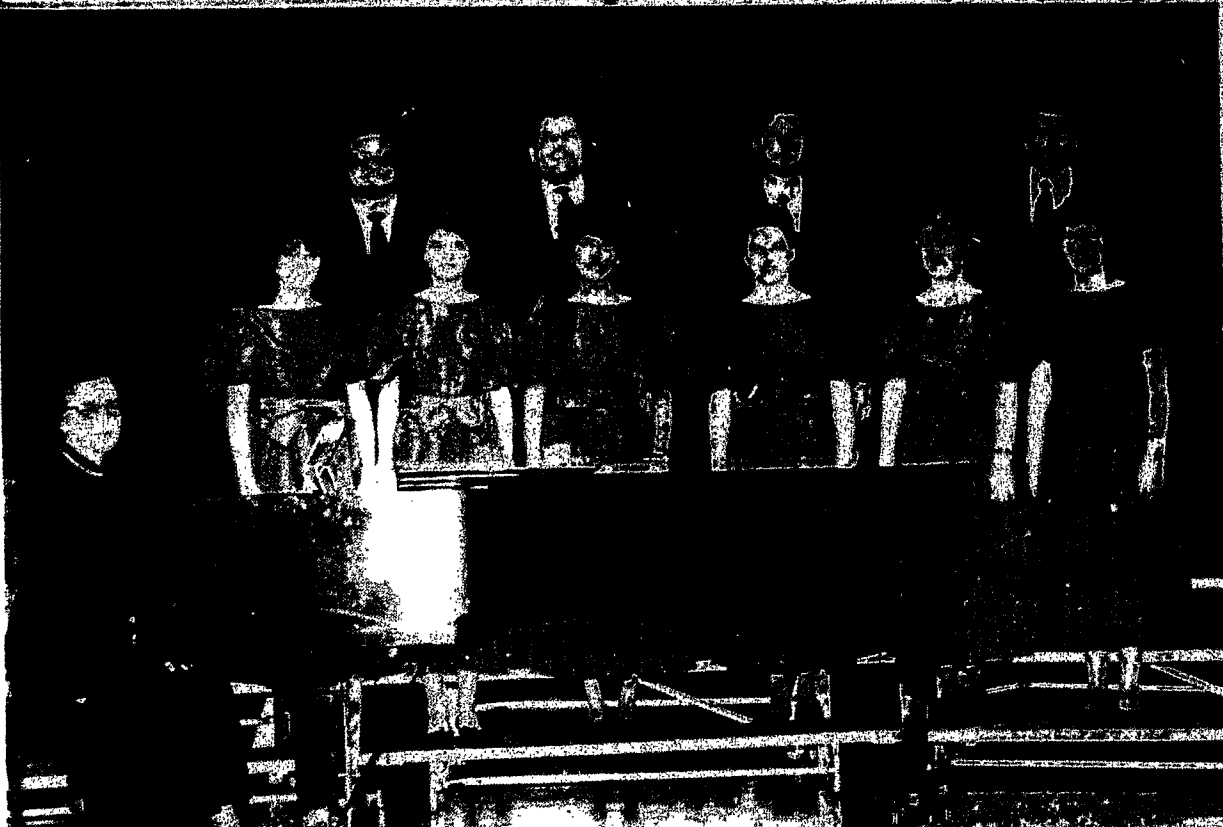

The prayer service theme this year is 'Prayers For Peace.' One hour long, the service features ministers and lay persons from several churches in an inspirational program.

Interdenominational in nature and designed to promote worship and Christian fellowship, the Community Prayer Service welcomes men and women of all faiths, Mrs. McDonald noted.

A collection will be donated to the Minister's Emergency Relief Fund, a recognized charitable entity in this county.

"Please take the time to come and enrich your day with your friends and neighbors in prayers for peace," McDonald urges.

LEADING SCORER - Mississippi State's Gary Rocky Wilson (14) struck out four batters in the bottom of the ninth inning Tuesday night at the University of Mississippi.

Winning pitcher was SSC freshman Cedric Smith who allowed four hits. Losing pitcher Brett Favre gave up five hits.

HNC jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the second inning as R. Prince walked and third baseman L. Lachner reached first base on an error. D. Prince's double brought home two HNC runs.

The Rocks came back in the bottom of the third and exploded for six runs. Jay Artigue led off the inning with his second single of the game, and Yasin Shabazz walked. Smith advanced the runners when he grounded out to the shortstop. Louis Schaff and Scott Heitmann followed with walks, and Bert Dean was hit by a pitch. After Rocky Rhodes and Grant Kelske walked, Joe Welsh singled in a run. Artigue came up for the second time in the inning and walked. Favre then struck out Shabazz and Smith to end the inning, as the Rocks held a 6-2 lead.

D. Prince doubled for the second time in the contest. Necessaire advanced Prince to third base as he grounded out to Artigue. Second baseman Lachner's sacrifice batted Prince as HNC cut the Rock lead to 6-4.

HNC struck again for a single run in the top of the fifth. Maufrey singled, went to second base on a passed ball, and advanced to third on a wild pitch. Brett Favre walked and stole second. Prince's sacrifice batted Smith to third base. Rhodes walked in a double play and HNC closed the game with a 9-6 victory.

was Welsh's third RBI of the ballgame.

With the Rocks on top 9-6 going in to the top of the last inning, HNC had the top of the lineup at bat. Smith retired the side in order as Davis flied to left, Maufrey grounded to second, and Brett Favre popped up to Smith to end the contest.

SSC Head Coach Rod Herring commented on the Rocks' play so far this season.

"Jay Artigue is leading our offense. He always seems to find a way to get on base, usually with a base hit," commented Coach Herring. "Scott Heitmann has been getting base hits, and Bert Dean is making good contact."

"Defensively," Coach Herring continued, "our infield play is solid, but we are still looking for the right combination in the outfield. The key is that we are a young ballclub. We've been giving up the one big thing which has hurt us."

"I've been pleased with our pitching. Freshman Cedric Smith has been doing an excellent job, and Tom Zant has been looking good," concluded coach Herring.

Bay-Waveland district opposes extended sports seasons proposal

BY DENA BUNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board has adopted a resolution opposing a Mississippi High School Activities Association proposal for extended school sports seasons.

The board voted unanimously Monday to join the Gulf Coast Superintendents Association in opposition to the proposal, which calls for earlier sports season openings and extra games designed to raise funds to build an office building for the association.

The most notable early season would be football, which the board feels would create problems for the district.

The proposal, according to the resolution, is "ill-conceived and educationally unsound," and other ways of funding the building should be found.

An earlier football season in particular could create new salary requirements for coaches, more competitive pressures on student athletes and possible health damage to students practicing in the coast's typically hot and humid August weather.

The resolution states, in part, "The superintendents also believe that the young people of our schools should not be required to risk their health and to jeopardize their academic well-being because of possible extended seasons in these sports which are already offered in seasons which are sufficiently long..."

A copy of the resolution, signed by Board President Betty Diholl and Superintendent Roger Oge, is being sent to the association's executive director.

River wins doubleheader

POPLARVILLE—Pearl River College used a two-hitter by Poplarville's Chris Bates to nail the Southwest Bears 7-0 in the first game of a doubleheader here Monday afternoon.

In the nightcap, Brian Fontenot struck out six and overcame a three-error fourth inning to post a 9-4 win. The Wildcats improved their South Division mark to 4-0 and the overall ledger to 9-4.

This past Saturday the Wildcats used a 13-hit attack to bury Jones 14-4 in the first game and then Mike Smeltzer blanked JCJC in a 4-0 victory. Paul Dugle was the winning pitcher in the first game, hurling six innings and striking out four batters. Smeltzer has a 3-0 record, while Bates is 2-0. Richard Cowart has pitched in eight of the 13 Wildcat games. In all, four 'Cat pitchers have less than a 2.0 earned run average.

Ned Eades, the Wildcats' head coach, said his team is down in hitting this year. Overall the 'Cats are pounding the ball at a .285 average.

Eades indicated that the Spring break lay-off slowed the 'Cats' timing. He did say, however, that the PRC pitchers returned from the eight day lay-off in good shape.

Leading hitters for the 'Cats include sophomore Todd Dugas of Lafayette at .382; Randy Habetz, also from Lafayette, at .326 and Purvis' Richard White batting .320. Habitz leads the team with four homers. John Mathis of Shelbyville, Kentucky and Lee Mock of York, Alabama have two round trippers each.

The Wildcats were to play Copiah-Lincoln Thursday at Wesson. Next week Utica will come calling Monday and East Central on Saturday (April 4).

Bay Steamers to conclude league action

The U-19 Soccer Team sponsored by McDonald Realty and Alcan Cable participated in a tournament that included some of the best teams in the Gulf states.

"Although the boys lost all three games, they learned a lot and those games will go a long way to preparing them for the State Championship in May," said coach Tom Dembeck.

The following men played all three games: Joe Lee, Shane Kowalski, Chris Michelle, Doug Rhodes, John Necaise, Jim Reisch, Scott Dembeck, Chris Riggs, Ronnie Peterson and Bart Brooks.

This weekend the Steamers conclude play for the State Select League with games at Gulfport's Milner Stadium at noon Saturday, and a final league game against the Blackhaws from Pascagoula at the Seminary Field at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

"Come out and enjoy watching their skilled play," Dembeck stated.

Coast Episcopal science fair reveals wide range of interests

In the recent Coast Episcopal Elementary School's annual Science Fair in Bay St. Louis, grades 1 through 3, students worked on group projects relating to a central theme.

The first grade topic was plants and seeds, second grade was energy, and the third grade was planets.

The students in grades 4 through 6 competed in categories rather than in classes. The categories were Behavioral and Social Sciences; Botany and Microbiology; Physics and Engineering; Zoology, Medicine, and Health.

Judges were given a criteria sheet and asked to evaluate each project on creative ability, scientific thought, skill, thoroughness, clarity, and dramatic value, said science teacher Mrs. Jane Lamb.

"The judges did an outstanding job as all of the projects were very good," said Lamb.

Winners in Behavioral and Social Sciences were first place, Whitney White, sixth grade, How Does the Consumption of Alcohol Affect a Mouse's Performance in a Maze?; second, Vanessa Pickett, fifth grade, Do Your Sight and Smell Affect Your Tastes?; third, Hamilton Ghoslon, sixth grade, Can a Machine Really Teach?

Botany and Microbiology winners were first, Whitney Eastman, fifth grade, How Will Salt Water Affect Plants?; second, Randy Hartwell, sixth grade, How Smart is a Bean Sprout?; third, Missy Mizell, sixth grade, Do Other Substances Have the Same Effect on Plants as Water?; honorable mention, George Hlass, sixth grade, Acid Rain and Water Hyacinths.

Early adolescent programs must answer students' needs

RESTON (VA)—American educators should spend more time helping students understand their worries and fears at the time when students are most concerned about those problems, according to a national expert on adolescent education.

"We must start looking at things that really concern our early adolescents when we plan programs for them," urged George Melton, deputy executive director, National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

"And we must do that when they are establishing their life-long values during the middle level years between sixth and ninth grades."

Aiming to place greater emphasis on these middle level grades, the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP) declared National Middle Level Education Week in March.

This was the first time the nation has celebrated the importance of sixth through ninth grade learning.

"With the many national reports we have seen on education the focus has been either the high school or elementary school," explained George Melton, NASSP deputy executive director. "The unique needs of adolescents cannot be overlooked. Without proper attention to these grades, the education system will not be serving students appropriately."

During the week NASSP called upon its more than 15,000 middle level members to share information about sixth through ninth grade learning in their communities.

Melton also hopes that through this national attention on adolescents' needs, parents and others who deal with them will become more aware of their needs.

"We must have a balance in the school curriculum—something that and 14 years, but middle level schools also offer a curriculum based on exploration.

"Middle level classes are not rigid such as those in high schools when students are preparing for college or employment," Melton explained. "During this time students are learning about what courses interest them and what they may wish to pursue academically in coming years. It's also the best time to teach them about the challenges they face. They have concerns and unless we address those concerns, they are likely to become major fears."

Melton believes that schools should teach coping skills as part of the regular curriculum.

"Kids must learn how to deal with peer pressure, how to judge the appropriateness of their own behavior and how to make good decisions," he indicated. "Obviously, the school cannot replace the home in developing values, but it can help kids develop strategies for coping with the pressures placed on them by peers and institutions like school."

In fact, Melton calls for a partnership with parents in meeting these needs of middle level students.

"The middle level school has to involve parents as allies, and the first step is communication," Melton said. "Parents should know what is going on in school and what they can do to help out. Schools should be able to help parents help their children cope with stress and peer pressure."

Narcotics News

Donald Butler
 Director
 Bureau of Narcotics

I would like to take this week's column to address the issue of drug trafficking in Mississippi.

It continues to be a problem of major proportions. This problem did not begin overnight and will not end overnight.

Drugs have become a "national epidemic" affecting everyone. Drug addicts are affected mentally, physically, and financially.

The root of society is affected by the higher crime rate, lower productivity levels in industry, harm to loved ones and families, and most importantly to the future of our country.

No other industrialized nation has been faced with the magnitude of the drug problem as America. That is why the citizens of this state must become aware of the problem and join efforts in fighting this "War on Drugs."

Are there any solutions? The answer is yes.

I strongly support a drug education program in the school systems teaching children the dangers of drugs. I also believe that stiffer penalties should be imposed on those involved in the illegal drug market.

Hopefully these two factors, along with concerted efforts among law enforcement officials, the judicial system, and the involvement of citizens will in time reduce drug traffic in Mississippi.

Donald Butler

Q: What happens to drugs that are seized by your agency? (S.F. McComb, MS)

A: The average case usually entails drugs being sealed and transported to the Crime Lab for analysis. The drugs undergo a series of test performed by a toxicologist.

Once analyzed they are moved to secured storage where they remain until called for by a trial court as evidence.

Once the case is resolved, the drugs are destroyed by the seizing agency upon authorization of the Director of Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics and witnessed by two Agents of the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics.

If you have any questions, write Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics, Post Office Box 6462, Jackson, Mississippi 39212.

Federal scholarships available

JACKSON—For the first time, Mississippi high school graduates with good grades and hopes of becoming teachers are eligible for the Congressional Teacher Scholarship.

This federally funded program provides scholarships to outstanding high school graduates to enable them to pursue teaching careers at the preschool, elementary, or secondary school level.

The scholarship program provides up to $5,000 per year for a maximum of four years of study. To be eligible, students must be residents of Mississippi, have graduated in the top 10 percent of their high school class, and be accepted at a Mississippi college or university with an approved program of teacher education leading to a Class A teaching certificate.

In return for the scholarship, recipients teach full-time in any state for two years for each year for which the scholarship was awarded. Recipients may teach in public or private preschools, elementary, or secondary schools and have ten years after receiving their education degrees to complete teaching service.

Application deadline is April 15. Full details of the Congressional Teacher Scholarship are available from the Mississippi Post-Secondary Education Financial Assistance Board, (601) 982-5570, 3825 Ridgewood Road, P.O. Box 2336, Jackson, MS 39235-2336.

JUSTICE FACILITY EDITION—THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1967

Hancock County Justice Facility

Bay St. Louis, Mississippi

New jail the result of a 10-year effort

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The new Hancock County Justice Facility is expected to be in operation this month.

However, plans for a new jail began in the late 1970's.

"It became very obvious at this time that conditions in the jail were inadequate and unacceptable," according to Fred Wagner, architect for the new jail.

Several successive annual Grand Juries, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, the sheriff and the public all were becoming aware that the 1937 building did not meet basic standards of human decency, he said.

A federal decision published at that time outlining the public's responsibility for the jail helped sway some people in favor of the new jail, Wagner said.

Walter J. Phillips, who was then serving as attorney for the board of supervisors, told the board there would be lawsuits if something was not done.

One of the first steps by the board was to appoint a citizen's committee to study the problem.

This committee contacted the Federal Bureau of Prisons which was able to send experts to Hancock County to offer assistance.

"This panel of experts was extremely impressed with the positive attitude of the committee and county officials," Wagner said.

They recommended a school in Colorado which teaches groups how to get a new jail and what it takes to make it adequate.

This school was attended by area citizens, officials and Wagner.

"The school was extremely well conducted and provided good, technical information as well as hands-on projects," he said.

According to Wagner, the group returned from the school very enthused and soon determined that it was going to take a $2 million bond issue to build the new jail.

"This was a horrendous amount of money at that time," he added.

But the first bond issue missed passing by only one percent of the vote.

Jail Committee Chairman Terrence Feeney said 19 votes in favor of the jail bond would have made it pass.

In spite of the failure of the first bond issue, the county had learned about what was needed and an indepth study of the problem and feasibility report on a new jail had been completed.

The original jail building has piecemeal additions made over the years including covering space between two buildings to create a kitchen and storage space.

But the structure was originally intended for only 15 prisoners, a much lower number than the current average daily jail population.

The feasibility study includes extensive growth projections so that the new facility would be able to handle the additional number of prisoners into the 21st Century.

"Because of design arrangement, age and frequent overcrowding, it has been almost impossible for the facility to meet even minimum standards.

"A recent examination and report on jail facilities in Mississippi by the State Building Commission show Hancock County's jail to be one of the most inadequate physical facilities in the whole state in relation to its inmate population," the study states.

The Hancock County Jail is the only detention facility in the county and houses all prisoners and detainees for the county and the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, persons involved in Chancery Court lunacy cases, and juveniles in custody of the Hancock County Youth Court, illegal aliens, Parchman prisoners awaiting court hearings in Hancock County, and those sentenced to Parchman awaiting transfer to the state facility.

The study also quoted a 1941 court order regarding use of local jails for incarceration of state prisoners.

"It is obvious from a study of the Court Order and cursory inspection that the present Hancock County Jail facility does not meet the physical requirements outlined in the order and that the present space limitations would not permit the policy and operational requirements to properly function if and when these may be initiated.

"Further, the present jail does not meet requirements for health, sanitation and fire exits. The physical plant lacks adequate heat, light, ventilation, sanitation and fire exits, according to the study text.

Regardless of whether or not the jail will be made suitable for state prisoners, it is just a matter of time before the facility will be pronounced unfit for human habitation, the study continues.

The study was complete with determinations of space needed and cost estimates of building the facility both directly behind the courthouse building and at its present location, adjacent the railroad tracks.

We're Hancock Bank.

In 1899 a group of 19 businessmen sat down to organize the first bank on the western Mississippi coast. They had in mind a bank that would be willing to put faith in the individual. One to work side-by-side with local families to help the young Gulf Coast grow.

They founded Hancock Bank. Since those days, Hancock Bank has grown to become the Coast's largest locally owned bank. But we haven't changed that original philosophy.

From helping early shop keepers purchase their first inventories. To financing multi-million-dollar industrial projects. We're still working to serve the individual family and business interests in our area.

We're Hancock Bank. The only bank you'll ever need.

New justice facility provides maximum security for inmates

BY KENDRA HEATHCOCK
A jail is defined as a place to detain persons awaiting trial or those convicted of minor crimes. In Hancock County, jail is across the county and here in Hancock County, convicted inmates and those awaiting trial are detained locally. In months until a transfer to the state penitentiary can be made.

The community in general has always had a place where those who have been convicted of crimes and those who are awaiting trial are detained. According to Fred Wagner, architect for the new Hancock County Justice Facility.

"However, the majority of people in jail have not been convicted and are awaiting for their trial," he said.

Initially, Wagner completed in 1981, sixty percent of the Hancock County Jail's average population had a pre-trial status.

Wagner found it a challenge to design a jail which provides maximum security and maximum necessity while at the same time providing humane detention for pre-trial prisoners and others who are not hardened, convicted criminals.

"In addition to that, we also had to include in the plan a case, place, and area for the operation of the jail business," he said.

Aesthetically, the new justice facility is a secure public building and provides only the best services to the detainees," he said.

The present and future of the jail is a Greenhouse. It is a symbol of a new justice facility.

And when a person steps into the jail they are immediately faced with the world of security. They are surrounded by a secure, protected area.

"The building is a symbol of this building being a secure place is a necessity," he said.

The building is a symbol of this building being a secure place is a necessity," he said.

of detainees but all in the visual control of the office.

A view of only two people is required to operate the facility at night," Wagner said.

One person is needed in the control booth on the second floor and a person in the control/dispatcher's office on the ground level.

As the person in the control booth maintains a single person in the control/dispatcher's office can see the entire ground floor.

"Primarily, this design allows maximum visual control by security officer or deputy," he said.

Sheriff Ronald Peterson said the additional visual control will greatly enhance the security of the facility.

"The numerous lockdown doors which separate the prisoners from the outside also adds to the overall security of the building," Peterson added.

Most of the doors in the new facility will be controlled electronically and can only be opened by the person in the control booth.

The prisoners will be able to carry out any necessary function, including seeing a doctor or nurse without leaving the secured area.

He said another feature in the new building which will add to security is non-contact visitation.

Prisoners will be separated from their visitors by glass.

"This type of visitation will alleviate many of the problems caused by contraband brought in to the jail following visitation," he said.
